

I am not sure if I clicked the box at the top of this that best suits my opinion because it is slightly confusing, but I have to say that I am appalled that Sinclair is just going to be allowed to have this shown. If they were going to show this then they need to be bi-partisan and either show a documentary against Bush or Kerry's campaign response. They have the right of free speech behind them, and I completely respect that. I think that it is horrible, however, that the US public has to see this on top of the extremely biased news we get because Bush has ties with everyone. People should be able to make their own decisions based on equal presentation. Thank you so much for your time,
